

I feel that consolidation of our media into fewer hands would be an absolute disaster. I think marketing concerns, and the politics of media owners, would determine a narrow range of programming. Our country's political system depends upon educated voters being able to get real information from a variety of truly free sources.